Names Make News

Mansfield Picks Four Democrats As 1960 Candidates

Compiled from UPI Wires
Mike Mansfield, assistant senate Democratic leader, said yesterday the Democrats' 1960 presidential candidate will be one of four men. He named the potential candidates as Senators John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Hubert Humphrey and Stuart Symington. He wrote off Adlai Stevenson's chances for the bid by adding "nobody else" to the list of potentials.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's name was entered with his consent in the Illinois preferential presidential primary, making him an open candidate in four states.

President Eisenhower rejected a plea by New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller that he permit the states to take over the 10 per cent federal telephone tax to meet education needs.

The President has asked Congress to extend the federal tax beyond the June 30 expiration date. He told Rockefeller the federal government needs the money to help provide an anticipated $4 billion surplus that will be applied against the public debt.

Actress Diana Barrymore, tempestuous daughter of the late John Barrymore, died yesterday at 38 while struggling up the comeback trail from alcoholism to the bright lights of Broadway. The cause of the death was listed officially as unknown but apparently natural, pending an autopsy today.

Old soldier General Douglas MacArthur is observing his 80th birthday today. The occasion will be marked by a quiet dinner party in his suite on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Towers. MacArthur is board chairman of Remington-Rand.

Convict-author Cary Chessman, whose legal maneuvering has put off death for 11½ years, yesterday won another day in court. He will appear in court Thursday for a hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. It will be the 13th time Chessman has been in court personally since he was sent to San Quentin's death row. He has been represented uncoupled times, often through his own efforts, in similar actions.

A West Berlin Jew took Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at his word and hit an anti-Semite with a bar stool for calling him a "Jew lout." The Jew, whose name was not disclosed, heeded the advice of Adenauer to "thrash" any one found denouncing Jews in public. It was the fifth incident yesterday as the wave of paint daubings and "Jew get out" slogans which began Christmas eve showed signs of flaring up again.

Senator Mike Mansfield has forecast a split between Russia and Red China. Mansfield said he believes relations are cooling between Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Red China's Mao Tse Tung. He said the split will grow wider as China's population increases . . . and the Chinese will move into Siberian lands taken from Chinese rulers by Russian czars.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced a new series of tests which he predicted will demonstrate the feasibility of transmitting mail by electronic devices. He made his prediction in announcing the award of a research and development contract to International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. The contract calls for development of prototype models of high-speed, high-volume facsimile transmitters and receivers to handle mail between key post offices yet to be designated.

CONGRATULATIONS—Gary Woodson, president of the senior class in pharmacy, receives a plaque from University graduate Wallace Mercer, 1949, in recognition of his position. Looking on is Dean of the pharmacy school Robert L. Van Horn. Mercer is presently a sales-manager for a Billings firm.

Photographers to Elect Officers, Discuss Contest

Photography Club will elect officers and discuss plans for a color slide contest this evening, President Bob Ludwick, said yesterday. The meeting is scheduled to be held in Committee Room 2 of the Lodge at 8 p.m. All persons interested in photography are invited to attend, Ludwick said.

ASMSU Changes Old News Policies

The Hometown Committee was re-organized at its last meeting, Gail Gunterman, committee chairman, said yesterday.

The committee was divided so that half of the members will gather news and half will write it. Sharon Dodge was appointed secretary.

Miss Gunterman said that the committee is presently writing stories concerning members of ASMSU committees. These stories are sent to the student's home town newspapers and radio stations.

The committee just finished reporting on the Aquamails and the members in Masquer productions. They will soon start writing news stories on AWS.

Rental Library Reported Success, Will Add Books

The rental library, which opened two weeks ago, will add 15 or 20 new books next week.

Kathleen Campbell, head librarian, said almost all the books on the two shelves have circulated at least once, and some more.

She said the rental library was started to provide leisure reading for students and it is proving to be very successful.

STILLSON WILL ADDRESS HISTORY GROUP TONIGHT

Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary, will hear Albert C. Stillson, professor of political science, speak on disarmament and disengagement at the Summit, tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

Jim Peck, president, said the group is scheduled to meet at the home of Melvin C. Wren, chairman of the history department, 301 Artemos Drive.

Forum Will Hear Brinser Speak on Resource Policies

Montana Forum will meet at noon Thursday to hear Ayers Brinser of the Harvard University Graduate School of Public Administration. His topic will be "Issues in Resource Policy."

Mr. Brinser is on a four-day visit to the University in connection with a special project being conducted by Harvard University and Montana State University to establish a model for evaluating recreational values and natural resources.

The goal of this project is to set up a schedule that may be used as a guide in determining the desirability of establishing recreational areas, Mr. Brinser said. The project is now in its third year as researchers from Harvard have been in Montana during the past two summers, he said.

Montana Forum will meet in Territorial Room 1.

Student Jumpers Ready and Rarin'

MSU Parachute Club members have nearly completed their sky dive training, Jeff Davis, parachute president, said yesterday.

He said that all club members are required to satisfactorily complete the training before they can sky dive. The training consists of practice on the shock tower which simulates the opening shock of a parachute, the Canadian swing unit which simulates the landing shock received by the jumper and five static line jumps. These jumps are scheduled to start about Feb. 15.

Jack Nash, master rigger for the U.S. Forest Service, is making parachutes which will be ready for the club's use about Feb. 1, Davis said.

MSU Group Plans Waters Memorial

A memorial for the late Charles W. Waters is being planned by students, faculty and friends, Reuben A. Diettert, chairman of the botany department, said.

Mr. Waters died in his home early Thursday morning of asphyxiation from gas fumes. Mrs. Waters, who was critically poisoned by the fumes, is recovering satisfactorily at the J. W. Severy home.

The idea of a memorial seems to have started in several places almost simultaneously, Mr. Diettert said. All efforts should be coordinated into a common action, he said.

The exact nature of the memorial will be determined by the amount of money contributed. Contributions may be sent to Mr. Diettert at the botany department, or to Mrs. Paul Bischoff, 905 Evans Ave.

NO LECTURERS TO APPEAR

There will be no visiting lecturers this quarter according to Jim Beck, chairman of the visiting lecturers committee. The next lecture is scheduled for Spring quarter.

Waldron Says Aids Increasing

Federal, university, and private stipends for graduate students are increasing, Ellis Waldron, dean of the Graduate School told Montana Forum Friday. Aid is in the form of teaching assistantships, research grants or fellowships, and is granted for doctorate and predoctorate studies, he said.

Students with grades of C may expect to be accepted into graduate schools, he said, and many inducements would probably be given to students with grades of B.

Those who seek specific qualifications and the curious who are anxious to extend their knowledge are two groups which should consider graduate study, Mr. Waldron said.

The peak season for application to graduate schools is January to March, he said.

STUDENT EDUCATORS HEAR CYNTHIA SCHUSTER SPEAK

Cynthia Schuster, assoc. prof. of philosophy spoke to the Student Education Association Wednesday evening on "teaching students to reason."

Gail Guntermann, president of the organization, said that anyone is welcome to attend the meetings, which are scheduled for Feb. 10, Feb. 24 and March 9.

Soprano Donna Kerber To Present Senior Recital

Donna Kerber, mezzo-soprano from Watertown, N.Y., will present her senior recital tonight at 8:15 p.m. in the Music Recital Hall.

Miss Kerber will sing "Können Tränen" by J. S. Bach, three numbers by K. P. E. Bach, three numbers by Fauré, Scene and Recitative from "Faust" by Gounod, "Stride la Vampa" by Verdi, "Field of the Dead" by Prokofier and "The Doll's Cradle Song" and "Parasha's Revery and Dance" by Moussorgsky.

Miss Kerber has been active in a cappella choir, Madrigals, and opera workshop. She presented her first university recital last year.

'Cave Dwellers' To Be Staged By Masquers

Montana Masquers will present William Saroyan's two-act play, "The Cave Dwellers," Thursday through Sunday in the Masquer Theater.

Cast for the four main characters are Charles Storfa, junior from Bigfork, the Duke; Diane Kenyon, freshman from Great Falls, the Girl; Marge Shjeflo, freshman from Dickinson, N.D., the Queen; and Wayne Finney, sophomore from Hamilton, the King.

Ray Maidment, a junior from Royal Oak, Mich., will direct the play. It is the first major production this year to be directed by a student.

General admission price is 75 cents. Student admission price is 50 cents. All seats are reserved. The box office is open from 12 noon until curtain time.

MSU Concert Hall Opera to Feature Solos by Students

The Opera Workshop will be featured on the University Concert Hall radio series tomorrow at 8:30 p.m.

The Workshop is under the direction of John L. Lester, professor of music. The program will be broadcast from the Music Recital Hall.

Ron Bottcher, winner of the district metropolitan opera auditions, and Priscilla Lester will sing excerpts from "Annie, Get Your Gun." Richard Guthrie and Joanna Lester will sing excerpts from "Kiss Me, Kate."

Operatic selections will be done by Byron Christian, Ursula Davis, Pat Hestekin, Keith Lokensgard and Bob Lucas. Tom Turner will be accompanist.

The program will be broadcast over radio station KGVO.

Blackfoot River Reported 14 Feet Above Normal

An ice jam threatened the Marco Flats Bridge and flooded a home and a campground 10 miles north-east of Missoula Sunday on the Blackfoot River. Residents of the area said the river is up some 14 feet from its normal level.

The river is clogged with ice for about two and one half miles on both sides of the Marco Flats Bridge. The ice cakes are about three feet below the bridge deck.

On the Blackfoot Highway, Route 20, the ice is piled higher than the highway, and at the "Big Blue Slide" turn water is pushing on to the road.

Raymond Clinkingbeard, Missoula County Surveyors office, yesterday said the water seemed to be dropping since Sunday and that there was no real danger at the present time of the bridge going out.

The John Day family, who reside near the threatened area, was driven from its home when the river left its natural course and swept into their yard. The home is about 100 yards from the normal channel of the river.

Griffith Bergman, also a resident of the area, said he thought the trouble was caused by the extreme cold weather, and that when the chill crept under the river bed the water began to freeze from the bottom up. As the water froze, the river lifted out of its banks choking the river with ice.

Rah Rah Rah Rah Rah

The University's more industrious students ("grinds" to the lay) continue to find themselves frustrated in their efforts to get an education by the locking of the library doors on weekend evenings.

More open-minded students and those capable of seeing the "big picture" realize that this is a part of the program emphasizing student use of University recreational facilities on Friday and Saturday nights. Now instead of spending a profitable, and sometimes necessary, evening among the "stacks" we watch a losing basketball team, enjoy pop and pizza at the College Inn and watch Lodge TV.

Not Enough Aid for Serious Students

To the Kaimin:

The Kaimin's report of last Thursday on the amount and number of grants-in-aid being awarded at the present time was both revealing and amusing.

Revealing because it pointed to the fact that 10 percent of the student body now receives less than $40,000 in aid even though they are scholars sporting grade point averages of 3.5 or better. In few cases, the individual scholars receiving aid get little more than $120 per year.

Amusing because the report did not tell us that there are over 90 students on this campus today receiving aid amounting to over $90,000, or at least $1,000 per year per student, even though the grade point averages of these students seldom exceed 2.5. This aid is popularly known as athletic "scholarship."

Dean Cogswell's statement that it is "tragic" that more aid does not come from organizations in the Arts and Sciences would be far less hypocritical if this dual standard for granting aid did not prevail at the University. One cannot dispute that a University ought to "develop the whole man," as the saying goes, but that the "whole man" ought to be 99 and 44/100 per cent sportsman is disputable. Something can also be said for developing as many "whole men" as possible instead of placing potentially destructive economic burdens upon scholars to satisfy the pleasures of a selfish few.

How long will the students and administration allow this horrible degradation of scholarship to continue? How long will we wait before trouncing the selfish special interests in the name free public education? Probably never; and if so, history can justly lay the blame for the death of mankind at our materialistic and self-centered door-step. For who else could be responsible as we who have refused to accept the greatest mission ever conferred upon one generation: the destruction of illiteracy through education.

TV Workshop Will Broadcast 'Varsity Album'

"Varsity Album," a television show now being produced by the University TV Workshop, will be broadcast over KMSO-TV Feb. 3 at 7:30 p.m., Erling S. Jorgensen, director, radio-tv studios, announced yesterday.

The cast of the 15 minute program will include the Theta Guys of Theta Chi; the Coquettes, directed by Phyllis Eide; Diana Riddle, solo; Chuck Elkington, South American folk songs; and Terry Cooper's combo.

All phases of the TV production will be handled by the members of the workshop, Jorgensen said. This includes script writing, makeup, and direction.

Utah State Out-Shoots Montana Quint 83 to 74

By BILL HOWELL
Utah State's Aggies showed why they lead the conference Saturday night with a 83-74 victory over an out-classed Grizzly squad.

All five Grizzly starters scored in double figures, with Terry Screnar leading the way with 20 points. Dan Sullivan had 15, while John Lands and Vince Ignatowicz each hit for 13. Dan Balko hit five shots from the field for 10 points.

The Silvertips edged their opponents 49-46 in rebounding, but couldn't offset the Aggies advantage from the field or the foul line. Utah State hit 43 per cent of its field goals and 17 of 20 free throws. The Grizzlies scored 12 of 17 free throws and hit 41 per cent from the field.

Cornel Green, USU forward, one of the top sophomores of the Skyline league, lead the Aggies in scoring with 25 points. Forward Jerry Schofield had 19 points and center Tyler Wilbon scored 18.

The Grizzlies took an early 3-0 lead but were unable to hold it as the Aggies quickly jumped back to lead at half time 45-34. The Aggies led by 9 or 10 points most of the time as the Silvertips fought desperately in an unsuccessful attempt to catch up.

The Silvertips came within eight points of the Aggies the second half, but were unable to close the gap any further.

USU forward Cornell Green hit five field goals and three charity tosses in the final 13 minutes of the game to keep the Aggies well ahead of the Grizzlies.

With two minutes left, Cecil Baker, Aggies coach, removed his five starters and replacements finished the game for both teams.

After the game, Montana coach Frosty Cox said that the Grizzlies had played "improved basketball." Utah State now has a 4-0 Skyline record and a 14-2 for the season. Montana is 1-4 in the league and 4-8 for the season.

The Silvertips play Thursday at Bozeman against the Bobcats.

Political Figures Prominent In College Convo Programs

Politics 1960 seems to be making itself felt on various campuses throughout the nation. Presidential hopeful, Senator John Kennedy (D-Mass) will speak at a student convocation at the University of Utah this week.

Also at Utah U, a student convo was held to hear Mortimer J. Adler, noted philosopher and author. Mr. Adler is probably best known for his two popular books: "How to Read a Book" and "How to Think About War and Peace."

Utah U also has Evening Lectures on Religion. The first lecture brought together a Mormon and a Jew in a discussion of Jewish influences on the Mormon scriptures.

Student convocations at Oregon State are sponsored by campus organizations. AWS held a series of convos on "The Educated Woman" with an Oregon State home economics professor, a woman state senator, and a prominent business woman and author appearing on the panel.

The keynote convocation address for the State University of South Dakota's Religion Emphasis Week was delivered by Eugene Dawson, president of Colorado Women's College.

Governor Rosellini of Washington spent a day on the Washington State College campus at Pullman speaking to various groups and viewing the campus. His visit was climaxed by the second biennial Governor's Ball at which he cut a cake baked in the shape of the state of Washington.

Cosmopolitan Club Hears Krause's Venezuelan Talk

Venezuela is a land of contrast politically as well as topographically, Hans Krause, senior from Caracas, Venezuela, told Cosmopolitan Club Friday evening.

Venezuela's history has been marked by a series of presidents and revolutions, Krause said. Now all the national political parties are collaborating with the present Constitutional Government which was democratically elected a year ago, he added.

Krause said that much of the anti-Nixon sentiment shown by Venezuelans a year ago was caused by President Eisenhower's appointment of Perez Jimenez, former dictator, as honorary submarine commander of the United States. He said Jimenez was hated by the Venezuelans.

Paris Designers Unveil 1960 Summer Fashions

PARIS, (UPI)—The bustline became the featured attraction today for three top dress designers who unveiled their spring and summer collections.

Jean Patou gave it highlights by elongating the bodice under a highly-uplifted chestline.

Jacques Griffe gave it equal billing with the hips and allowed the bosom plenty of freedom through the cut of the sleeves.

And Gres showed moulded chestlines combined with wide sleeves which dipped down to the waist.

Most skirt lengths were unchanged from last season and stayed at the top of the calf. But Patou reversed the long trend with hemlines that barely covered the kneecap.

Griffe deviated a bit with an emphasis on a long torso line and also cut many of his suit jackets longer than the others. He also went to wide, dipping sleeves.

De Gaulle's Prime Minister Sent to Embattled Algiers

PARIS, (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle, determined to crush an anti-government settlers' uprising, dispatched Premier Michael Debre to embattled Algiers last night to seek a swift end to European rioting there against his Algerian peace plan.

The announcement of Debre's quick trip followed an emergency three-hour meeting of de Gaulle's cabinet. The premier was expected to arrive in Algiers tomorrow morning by air.

De Gaulle himself had announced last week before the rioting broke out that he would visit Algeria Feb. 5. He has announced no change in this plan.

Meanwhile, thousands of well-armed French settlers reinforced their barricades in Algiers and spread their revolt to other key cities of Algeria yesterday in defiance of de Gaulle's warning to lay down their weapons.

An uneasy truce prevailed in Algiers where an estimated 8,000 rightwing "Colons" built up their paving block and barbed wire defenses in the downtown university area before the watchful eyes of battle-ready paratroopers and riot police.

Around them lay the litter of yesterday's pitched battle between the settlers determined to overthrow de Gaulle and the riot police which left at least 25 dead and 140 wounded on both sides.

Focus of the threat to de Gaulle and his Fifth Republic was the area around the University of Algiers.

Some 3,000 insurgents were in the street area, behind barricades that grew larger and stronger as more paving blocks were ripped from the roadways. These men were commanded by Joseph Ortiz, a leader of the extremist "National French Front."

Another 5,000 diehards were manning the university building itself.
